Internet Scavenger Hunts are a fun way to learn!

Students visit a website to read and learn about a specific topic and then they = answer the questions in the printable worksheet.

Tip of the Week:

Explore the World from Your Classroom with Virtual Field Trips!

Why: Virtual field trips engage ESL students by immersing them in new cultures and environments, making language learning exciting and contextual.

How: Choose a virtual tour of a landmark, museum, natural wonder, local organization, restaurant, country, etc. During the tour, guide students through interactive features, ask them to describe what they see, and encourage them to ask questions.

Example Activity: Visit the Smithsonian National Museum of Natural History and have students describe different exhibits, share what they find interesting, and use new vocabulary words in sentences.

Benefit: This approach helps ESL students practice listening and speaking skills in a meaningful context, boosts their confidence, and connects language learning with real-world experiences.

Bonus: Use virtual field trips as a fun way to introduce new vocabulary or grammar points!
